County Board chops $49,500 in long session

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

In a daylong session Wednesday which continued until after 5 p.m., one of the longest Lee County Board meetings within memory, the board made minor changes in the budget submitted by the Finance Committee and where it affects the property taxes the proposed levy was reduced by $49,500 from the suggested total.

This change came about by removing $49,500 from the appropriations for the County Records System which was included to pay part of the cost of a professional reappraisal of property in the county should the board later decide to conduct the program.

The board took the action on a motion by Donald Burke, District 3, Finance Committee member and board parliamentarian, who pointed out appropriation of funds constitutes the authority to spend.

Previous action by the board tentatively committed $150,000 of federal revenue sharing funds to partially pay for a reappraisal of property. However, designating federal sharing funds for certain purposes cannot be actually spent, according to federal established guidelines, without specific approval by the board.

Total appropriations were, including commitment of federal revenue funds, increased by $73,148. This resulted from the $49,500 reduction from the County Records System, a hike of $240 for the County Veterans Assistance, and reflects a raise in pay for William Underwood, veterans assistance officer, and $105,000 more committed from federal funds. The last amount is made up of $75,000 earmarked to finish paying for remodeling the Courthouse and $30,000 designated to pay the first year's cost of computer data processing should the board accept that system of record keeping.

The deficit in the General Funds was reduced from $17,849 to $11,121, by the actions taken during the day.

This deficit will probably be wiped out by the underestimation of interest earned by County Treasurer Sharon Thompson. The budget predicts she will turn over $65,000 to the county but last week Thompson told this reporter the amount would actually be more than $73,000.

Changes in the General Fund are reflected because of two jobs under the Comprehensive Emergency Training Act (CETA) for the county nursing home and one job slot for the county highway department and rectifying a clerical error which budgeted $4,000 too much for the County Planning Commission.

Sheriff Ray Nehring must feel like a shunned leper. During the morning session the board rejected his request for two jobs under the CETA program but during the afternoon session gave Robert Roiland, administrator of the nursing home, permission to hire two CETA applicants and County Highway Superintendent Ronald Brandau got the okay to hire one CETA employee.

CETA is a federally funded program which seeks to put people to work. To be eligible under the CETA program a person must have been unemployed for at least 15 weeks.

If a local public agency hires a CETA certified applicant the government pays all cost of employing that person until June 30, 1976. The program may be extended past that deadline but if not the hired person will either have to be fired or the employing agency must pay the salary and fringe benefit costs.

Roiland told the board if the program ends on June 30 the two persons hired will either be relieved from duties or be reassigned to fill a regular employee opening.

He also asked and got an additional $3,774 added to the payroll budget to pay for the replacement of an employee whose salary had been paid through the Tri County Opportunity Council (TCOC).

Roiland explained the home was looking for a person to fill a job in the house-keeping department and was approached by TCOC who told about their program for training housekeepers and informed him they would pay the salary of employee if he hired the person in their program.

The nursing home administrator reported the employee, who lives in Amboy, after working for several months learned of an opening in a nursing home in her hometown and sought and got TCOC approval to change jobs.

Roiland told the board she was working in a regular job and when she left the vacancy had to be filled with an employee for whom the county paid the salary.

The board heard and had placed on file a letter from Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales, noting the probation officers had received no raises in pay and suggested "they should be treated as other county employees and be considered for salary increases."

Burke said the committee considers pay for elected and appointed officials every other year and next year the pay for these officers will be reviewed.

A discussion ensued whether probation officers were appointed or hired.

Burke maintained they were unlike assistant state's attorneys who are hired by the state's attorney, but Herbert Henning, District 3, also a member of the committee, suggested Judge Bales hire the probation officers and that places them in an employee classification.

Henning urged the board to consider the judge's request.

William Kant, District 1, chairman, County Services Committee, made an impassioned plea for the board to appropriate $7,500 to the Youth Service Bureau and finished by making a motion to that effect which was lost because of not being seconded.

Kant blamed the auditing firm of Hamilton and Blaine for not notifying the YSB to forward a copy of its budget to the Finance Committee.

Dean Hamilton of the firm revealed the Finance Committee, not the auditing firm, determines what organizations are to be contacted about receiving subsidies from the county.

Kant noted YSB reports seeing hundreds of troubled young people and that the county has approved a Target House costing thousands of dollars to operate which cares for maybe three juveniles.

Henning replied the two cannot be compared. He observed operation of the target house reduces the budget for aid to dependent children.

Al Graff, executive director, Sinsissippi Mental Health Center (SMHC), appeared before the board to plead for the restoration of $7,434 cut from the amount recommended for the center by the County Health Board.

He also pointed out the financing arrangement for the center over the eight years it has been in existence, noting the local share of the budget has been apportioned to the four counties it serves on a basis of population in each county.

Lee has 23 per cent of the four-county population and its share of the local funds for the center's budget was $50,850. The Finance Committee pared this down to $43,496, the amount received last year.

Graff told the board he will need to know if the county's failure to pay its "fair share" next year is a temporary condition because of the present financial condition and will be "rectified in another year." Or whether it signals a move by the county not to pay the determined share for Lee County.

If the latter is the case, Graff continued, consequences which follow may include withdrawing some services to Lee County residents or curtailing some existing programs by excluding Lee County residents.

After the board, on a motion by Lowell Beggs, District 1, chairman, Health and Welfare Committee, was defeated, Graff asked if he could have a meeting with some committee of the board to discuss the future intentions concerning financing the county's share of SMHC's local budget.

He was directed to meet with the Finance Committee.

Graff said the state pays about one-half of the center's budget and the remainder is derived from client fees and county contributions.

Whiteside County has 38.5 per cent of the population and pays $85,000; Carroll had 12 per cent and pays $26,500; Ogle had 26.5 per cent and pays $58,500, according to Graff.

Before the vote was taken Ernest Norden, District 1, chairman, Finance Committee, said, "Graff should have been invited to meet with the Finance Committee and I apologize to him for this oversight. We did not get the full story about the center's building expansion and the increase in their budget was caused by expanded services."

Arlan McClain, director of Kreider Service, followed Graff and also appealed for restoration of a cut in the county contribution to that organization. Kreider requested $22,500 and the Finance Committee cut this to $15,000.

Both of these agencies receive county funds under state law which requires a county to provide mental health service.

Irvin Koch, board chairman, District 2, decided the Executive Committee will study the adoption of computer data processing of county records after the board on a 22 to 3 vote reserved $30,000 of federal sharing funds to assist in the purchase of two buses.

Bernard Sexton, District 4, member, County Property Committee, suggested the board consider putting its insurance out for bids. "This morning we decided to get bids for refuse hauling services which cost about $600 a year and here we have budgeted more than $75,000 for insurance and do not get bids for this expenditure."

On a motion by Norden, the County Property Committee was directed to arrange to advertise for bids for county insurance and was given power to act.

The County Board took seven roll call votes. On one to approve the tax levy the vote was unanimous. On the vote to approve the amended budget only William Kant voted "no," and absent were: Allen, Fraza, Schrauth.

On whether to approve a motion made by David Gusse, District 1, that the county pay raises for individual employes shall be determined by the department heads so long as the total amount given does not exceed the appropriated amount for salary increases. YES: Smith, Topper, Balser, Beggs, Burrs, Conroy, Considine, Dunphy, Ege, Erickson, Faber, Fraza, Gusse, Hamersmith, Henning, Kant, Kesselring, Koch, Norden, Padgett, Rogers, Schrauth, Sexton, 23. ### Stouffer reminder on filing dates

County Clerk John Stouffer notified the County Board Tuesday that Dec. 8 is the first day and Dec. 15 the last day for filing nominating petitions to run for an office which is to be voted on in the March primary.

He suggested the possibility some person may write-in partisan candidate names in the primary vote for county board members and speculated the courts might consider the office of county board member had been voted on in that election.

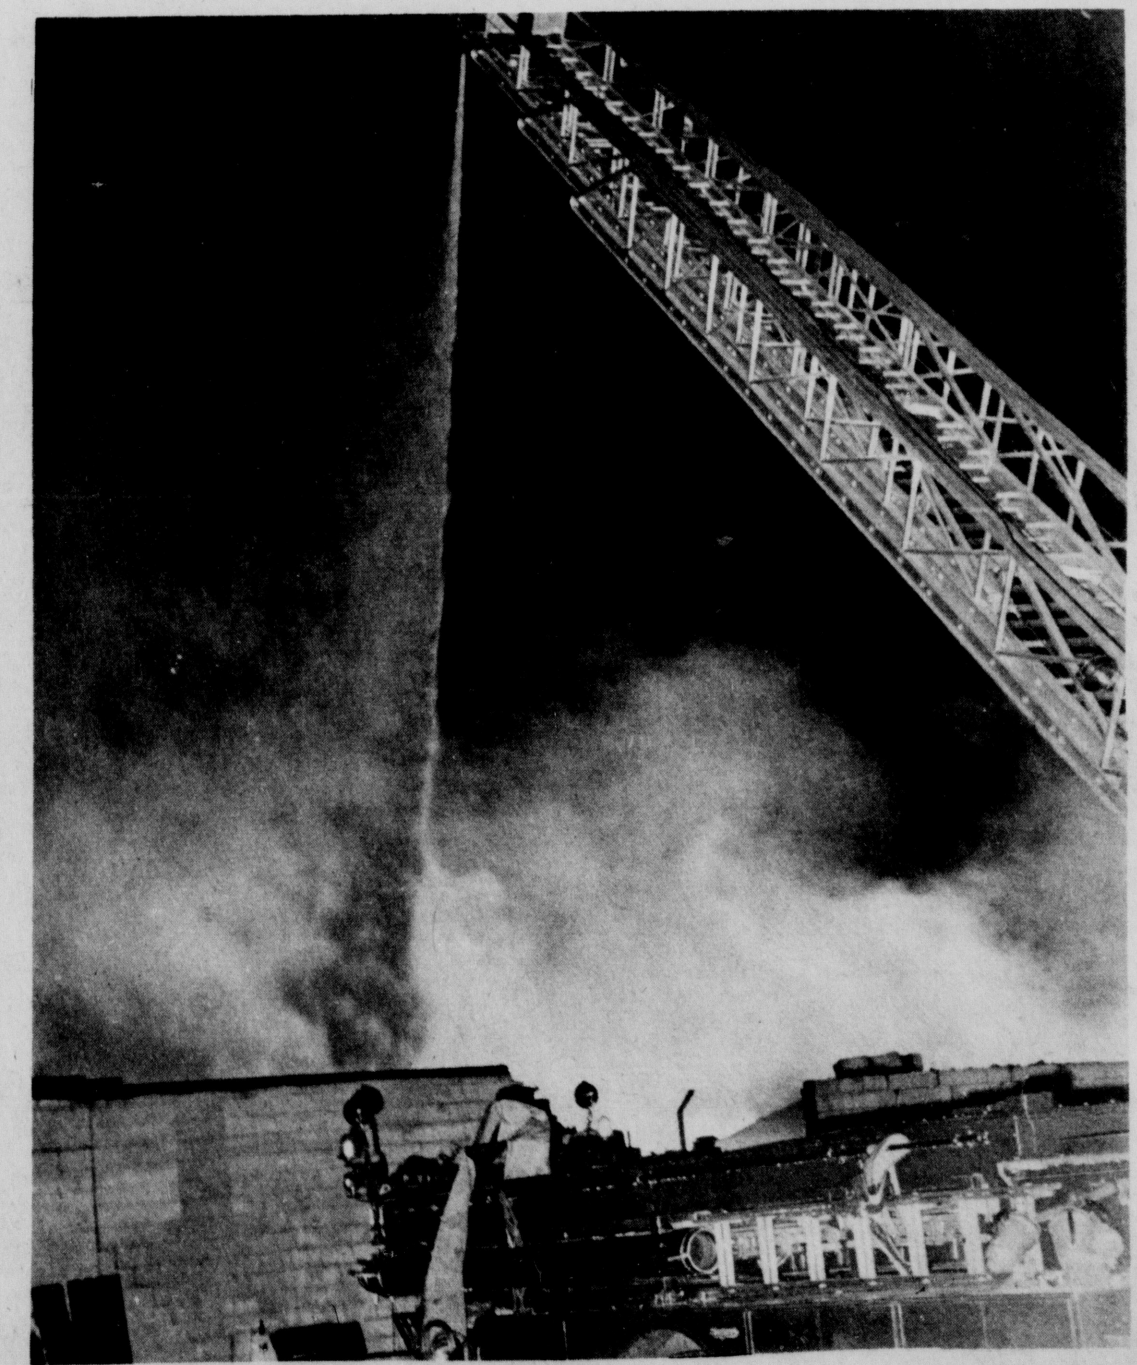

Should that occur, he warned members who will run for re-election in 1976, there may be no chance to file a petition after Dec. 15.

Stouffer also noted two members of the present board, Bernard Sexton, District-4 and Michael Schrauth, District-3, were both appointed to fill vacancies and both will have to run in 1976. He also pointed out one of the two appointed members will be elected to a two-year term and suggested a method be worked out to decide who receives a four-year term and who is elected for two years.

Whether to pay the previously committed $10,990 from federal sharing funds to the Lee County Council on Aging. YES: Burrs, Conroy, Erickson, Green, Hamersmith, Henning, Huffman, Kesselring, Koch, Norden, Padgett, Rogers, Sexton, Smith, Topper, Balser, Beggs, Burke, 18. NO: Ege, Faber, Gittleson, Gusse, Kant, 5. Absent: Allen, Considine, Dunphy, Fraza, Schrauth.

Flames take Rochelle Building

ROCHELLE—A fire of undetermined origin, Wednesday night destroyed a building on U.S. 51 on the south edge of Rochelle owned by Ed Sarver, Rochelle. Rochelle fire fighters were called to the scene at 8:11 p.m. and at mid-morning were still on the scene because of smoke and visible flames from the structure.

The building is rented by Oleson Construction Co., a concrete contractor. Oleson subleased the rear part of the building to the Del Monte Company. A truck in the building along with materials from the construction company were destroyed by the blaze.

Fire officials believe the fire broke out in the rear portion of the building where cardboard boxes and pallets are stored by Del Monte. Winds from the north were beneficial as firemen were successful in preventing the blaze from spreading to a nearby mobile home park and a coin laundry and car wash owned by Rochelle Mayor Bill Cipolla.

Rochelle police were aided by state police with traffic control throughout the night. Officials estimate U.S. 51 will remain closed today and traffic will be re-routed around the fire scene.

Rochelle Fire fighters were assisted by the Ogle-Lee Fire Department in fighting the fire. Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the fire department brought coffee and sandwiches to the fire fighters at approximately 9 p.m.

Action in Lee County Court

Burke, Dunphy motions studied

Circuit Judge James B. Vincent, Galena, took four motions under advisement and continued two other defense motions Wednesday.

The motions deal with various technicalities concerning indictments returned against Jim G. Burke, 317 Steele Ave. and Herb Dunphy, 711 Peoria Ave., accused of perjury, solicitation and unlawful observation of voting in connection with absentee ballots cast in the days prior to the April 15 city elections.

Atty. Henry Dixon, representing Burke and Dunphy, argued the indictments should be dismissed because the statute on which the charge is based was repealed Oct. 1, 1973. Dixon was referring to absentee ballot forms attached to the indictments. Each of two forms lists a section of state statute upon which authority is given for the form.

Special Assistant State's Atty. Charles Levad told the court he had no prior notice that the point would be raised and asked for time to research the issue. Levad later said the section was repealed and replaced with another number and the forms given out by the city clerk's office contained the old number.

Judge Vincent continued the hearing on the motion to dismiss based upon the repealed law and a second motion to dismiss based upon improper selection of grand jurors. The latter point is based on a list of 29 names furnished the defendants by the prosecution and indicated as a list of the grand jurors. Dixon said the grand jury under state statute, may have no more than 23 names.

Another defense motion to

(See BURKE on page 8)

Two motions denied

Circuit Judge John Rapp Jr., Mt. Carroll, denied two sections of a defense motion to dismiss an indictment brought against Alice Dempsey, 1119 W. Second St., and took under advisement a third point raised by Atty. Willard Nelson, Morrison.

Dempsey is named in a 12-count indictment returned Sept. 25, charging her with perjury, solicitation and unlawful observation of voting in connection with the absentee ballots cast in the days prior to the April 15 city election.

In his motion to dismiss, Nelson argued grand jurors were improperly selected in that a list furnished him showed 29 names when only 23 persons served on the panel. This was denied by Judge Rapp as grounds for dismissal.

A second point denied concerned the failure of the indictment to show the defendant actually did something, as argued by Nelson. He claimed certain counts of the indictment indicated his client caused something to happen and did not actually do something.

Judge Rapp took under advisement one point raised by Nelson that the indictment did not contain a list of witnesses who testified during the grand jury sessions which led to the indictment. Nelson cited case law requiring mandatory listing of names on the indictment.

Special Assistant State's Atty. Charles Levad argued a certification of grand jury witnesses furnished to Dempsey satisfied the intent of the statute. Levad added he is willing to write the names on the indictment also. Nelson maintained the indictments should be dismissed for failure to list the names.

Rapp hits at game-playing

In denying a defense motion asking depositions be entered on behalf of State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward, Circuit Judge John Rapp Jr., Mt. Carroll, called for a speedy trial and asked for an end to game playing by attorneys.

The motion was brought by Atty. Henry Dixon in connection with a petition for injunction for Ted Trulock Jr., which was filed Aug. 28.

A trial date has been scheduled for Dec. 1. The injunction seeks to have Attorney General lawyers and State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward refrain from "annoying, harassing, bothering and threatening," Trulock, who was called to testify at various grand jury sessions which resulted in the indictment of Democratic Central Committee Chairman Jim G. Burke and two of his campaign workers, Herb Dunphy and Alice Dempsey.

The defendants have denied the allegations.

Judge Rapp held Ward, who was removed as a defendant in a prior motion argued by Attorney General lawyer Jaynce Carr, and later renamed as a defendant in an amended complaint, has 20 days in which to respond to the amended complaint before deposition. It was pointed out that the 20-day time limit will not run out until Nov. 20.

Why Rocky quit N.Y. governship

The State of New York led all the states in promoting social reform. Governor Rockefeller was the champion in this endeavor.

In the past five years, New York state and its agencies, promoted by Nelson Rockefeller, have tripled their debt from $4 billion to more than $13 billion. Hope you good citizens kept an eye on the debt created in Illinois.

No wonder that Governor Rockefeller resigned as governor, when he knew the record. Bad news comes to the top and we hope it is not too late to be corrected. The State of New York has obligations due next spring so high that they cannot be paid . . . by the type of men the people had elected to office in years gone by.

When President Gerald Ford said "no" to Rockefeller when he asked to have the federal government bail out the city and then the state, you can understand why they separated. The people will not only have to raise taxes but also go without some services in order to pay the long term obligations.

Your Democratic Congress is trying to force all the citizens of all the other states to pay for the folly of New York playboys. I hope Gerald Ford tells them all to walk east till their hats float.

Only the states of New York and Rhode Island pay unemployment benefits to strikers, which may be part of the bankruptcy of the City of New York. If they did not pay benefits to strikers there would be less strikes and much shorter strikes.

Some workers think that hippies, loafers, strikers and others who voluntarily choose not to work have no claim on the earnings of those who do choose to work. Those who work should live better than those who won't work.

The Warren Report and election year politics

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN

WASHINGTON— "The report of the Warren Commission is so voluminous," wrote then-Congressman Gerald R. Ford and John R. Stiles, "that here— perhaps for the first time in history— everything essential to a nonfiction novel is available."

Mr. Ford and Stiles wrote these lines in a 1965 work, "Portrait of the Assassin" (Ballantine Books), based in large part on the congressman's membership on the commission that investigated the assassination of John F. Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, 1963.

Critics of the Warren Report, who have grown more numerous and vocal in the last few years, contend that the findings are fiction. Some have gone so far as to suggest the Warren Commission engaged in a deliberate coverup. Such a charge now could involve President Ford.

A clear prospect exists that some from of congressional investigation reopening the JFK killing will be initiated. On Oct. 14, for example, an investigation was launched by a House subcommittee headed by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., into the possible relationship of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with Kennedy's assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, and the slayer of Oswald, Jack Ruby. Edwards denies that the probe is an effort to reopen the Warren Commission study but concedes "others may decide to do that."

Since late spring, pressure for reopening the Kennedy killing investigation has steadily mounted, particularly in view of the congressional investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the committee investigating the CIA, contends a series of developments concerning the CIA and FBI warrant reopening the Warren Commission matter. It is alleged that Allen Dulles, Warren Commission member and CIA director, withheld information from the commission concerning the spy agency's alleged plots to assassinate Cuban dictator Fidel Castro. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, contends that his Senate select committee has actual evidence on CIA attempts on Castro's life.

The FBI has been charged with knowing of Oswald's intentions to kill President Kennedy prior to the assassination and destroying documents and letters proving this. There is even the charge that Oswald was working for both agencies. "I was one who believed the Warren Commission's conclusion that Oswald acted alone," states Schweiker. "But all these new developments have caused me to question some of the commission's assumptions. I think they are grounds for taking another look. To me, it's like a big, public boil that's going to burst."

While many in Congress who want to reopen the Warren Commission probe are sincere, many others see in such investigation an unprecedented opportunity to discredit the entire government, including the CIA, the FBI, even President Ford.

The political uses of Watergate, with Richard Nixon's resignation and the trial and conviction of many of his close associates, have waned in recent months. Reopening the Warren Commission in vestigation would provide a field day for those intent on smearing Mr. Ford as a member of that body, with charges that, like Nixon, he too was a partner to a coverup and conspiracy to hide the real cause and culprits who committed the crime.

The use of the Warren Commission report as a political weapon in next year's presidential election is more real than most imagine. While it is doubtful that anything constructive can emerge from a reopening of the Warren investigation, the efforts to do so by well-meaning people, and not so well-meaning fanatics, present an irony on the 12th anniversary of that fatal Friday.

With the assassination of John F. Kennedy, the tone and tenor of life in America were altered forever. It was as if the crack of the rifle in Dallas were the signal for the bursting of a dam releasing a torrent of madness at home and abroad.

Perhaps when those pushing for reexamination of the Warren Report have exhausted it political uses, we shall have finally come to the end of the long national nightmare that began in Dallas a dozen years ago.

Days of reckoning here

By CASPER W. WEINBERGER

It's no longer a case of the next generation. Our massive welfare-state approach now threatens us with national insolvency.

After 5½ years in Washington, my single over-riding observation is that an all-pervasive federal government, unless checked, may take away our most precious personal freedoms while shattering the very foundations of our economic system. Consider this: In 1970, the federal budget outlay stood at $196.6 billion; it is now $358.9 billion— an increase of 83 per cent!

Apart from its sheer magnitude, federal spending has shifted toward programs that reduce the remaining freedom of individuals. We are creating an edifice of law and regulation that has intruded into the lives of all of us— both those it seeks to help and those who do the helping. The entire human-resources field is under the lash of federal law— doctor, hospital, teacher, college president, student, voluntary agency, city hall and state capital.

Worst of all, the unplanned, uncoordinated and spasmodic nature of our responses to people's needs— some very real, some only imagined— is quite literally threatening to bring us to national insolvency. If social programs continue growing at their present pace, we could be spending close to half of our whole Gross National Product for domestic social programs alone by the year 2000.

Should that day ever come, government, like a gigantic sponge, would sop up all the nation's surplus capital— capital needed for industrial growth and modernization. We would no longer have enough money left to invest in job-producing activities in the private sector. If half the entire GNP should go to pay for domestic social programs, we could not, in all likelihood, maintain our free-enterprise economy. We will then have destroyed the system which has brought more benefits to more people at home and throughout the world than any other system since recorded history began.

It is the propensity of welfare states to spend beyond their means, leaving the day of fiscal reckoning to another generation. The news today is that we are that other generation. New York City, with one out of every eight persons on welfare, is now staring into the abyss. For decades, it spent more than it took in— and now it is hostage to whoever can be persuaded to loan it more billions for its swollen expenses. Fifteen of the last 16 federal budgets have been red-ink budgets. If we continue thus, the nation will someday be standing before the same abyss as New York City— only there will be no one with enough resources to rescue the federal government.

We must also recognize that a welfare state inevitably plunges us into a morass of attempted social engineering. An example of such ineffective and meddlesome government is the program to end hiring discrimination in colleges. It took the University of California over a year to prepare the mountain of paperwork that the Department of Labor requires. Yet the net effect of this herculean effort will be only trivial in terms of increasing real job opportunities for minorities and women.

These hiring regulations, which the Department of Health, Education and Welfare must administer, are wholly inappropriate. And they illuminate how futile it is for a distant government— hypnotized by a numbers game— to concentrate on narrow statistical goals.

This is egalitarian tyranny, not equal opportunity. Equal opportunity means the right to compete equally for the rewards of excellence, not to share in its fruits regardless of personal effort. The egalitarians miss this point. They would divide the wealth equally, overlooking the crucial fact that all human progress throughout history owes its origins to the talented and the enterprising. We must keep a system that allows us to develop the talents of all, no matter what their origin.

Of course, we must protect and help the most vulnerable members of society. But if we do not persevere in the quest for excellence, then our reward will be a dearth of excellence. Those who have escaped the gray, faceless masses of the world's closed societies understand that fact.

Our country was built by people of energy, daring and ingenuity— the Tom Edisons, the Wright Brothers, the Helen Kellers, the Robert Fultons, the Andrew Carnegies and countless others with the courage to reach out and realize their dreams, whatever the odds. The real social agenda of America, still unfinished, is to discover and reward excellence wherever we find it— under a black skin, a white skin, in a female or male, in a Catholic, a Jew, a Protestant or an agnostic.

If we fail to see this as our real agenda, we risk delivering our destinies over to the cold and lifeless grip of a distant egalitarian government whose sole purpose is to ensure an equally mediocre existence for everyone, achieved at the cost of personal liberty.

We therefore must summon up a common determination to change drastically our present welfare-state approach— not only because it is not working but because it can ruin all of us. The price of more and more public programs, we must remember, is less and less private freedom. Congress quite evidently believes that the road to popularity and re-election is to say "yes" to every demand for every increase in all existing programs, plus agreeing to new ones. Only a wave of public sentiment can give Congress the nerve to say "No more."

Reader makes plea for unwanted dogs

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter and do thousands of dogs and cats a favor. Dear Ex-Dog-Owner: Today, I found the dog you dumped. She was standing in the middle of a busy intersection, staring at each passerby, hoping her "beloved" master would return for her. You probably thought someone like me would adopt the poor thing. Well, I did pick her up, but now she is at the animal shelter because my family already has three dogs. Why didn't you take her to the shelter in the first place? Don't you know that the majority of dogs dumped never find a home? Instead they face starvation, mistreatment, or death under the wheels of a car or truck. At the shelter your dog will be fed and cared for and an effort made to find a new, responsible owner. At worst, she will be painlessly put to sleep — instead of suffering a tragic death on her own. — Tired Of Injustice To Animals

Lee County Right to Life Committee

Members of the Lee County Right to Life Committee heard Dr. Mildred Jefferson, surgeon, Harvard graduate, and president of the National Right to Life Committee urge pro-life supporters to work toward the passage of a Human Life Amendment. Dr. Jefferson, speaking at a Benefit Brunch in Rockford on Sunday, told her audience that they must become politically astute so that human life would again be protected by law. As a doctor, she affirmed the findings of biologists and geneticists that a new human life does indeed begin at conception. As a Protestant, she refuted those who denied such facts because they happened to coincide with the dogma of a certain religion. As a Black, she stood firmly committed to the right to life of all; including the minority class of the unborn child, the socially unwanted handicapped or aged, and the depersonalized members of certain races or religions. Finally, as a woman she expressed the high ideals of womanhood as the nurturing and caring guardians of each new generation. Dr. Jefferson said she was speaking because it was, "Too late for the doctor to stay in that comfortable groove of home, office, and hospital. "On January 22, 1973, when the Supreme Court of the United States handed down decisions on abortion which made the matter of getting rid of a baby a private decision between a woman and a doctor, it became too late for all the rest of the citizens simply to mind their own business and expect reason to prevail," she said. The Right to Life President explained that the Court violated the most basic traditions of our country when it granted the individual the private right to kill by saying the State could not interfere in that first 12 weeks of the lives of expectant mothers and their unborn children. In the second 12 weeks, the states may make some regulations provided the abortion procedures would injure the health of the woman. It is only in the last three months that there is any opportunity for the State make regulations "if it chooses for the life which Justice Blackmun called, "Potential." In her speech, Dr. Jefferson reminded her audience that the United States stands at the same pinnacle of technological achievement and excellence as did Germany in the 1920's. However, during this period a philosophy that not all lives were worth living became prevalent among prominent German doctors, especially psychiatrists. Without one law on the books legalizing euthanasia, doctors began "eliminating" certain social burdens to improve society. They began with incurably disabled soldiers. They emptied institutions for the insane, the mentally retarded, the aged. Finally their criteria became such that German children with badly modeled ears and bed wetters were killed. All this paved the way for the eventual extermination of six million Jews and six million more Catholics, gypsies, and other "undesirables." Concluding, Dr. Jefferson said, "I know that in a country as rich as ours, with as many people who care as there are in ours, there is no reason to turn back and allow a very elitist notion to prevail in our society that only the people who are rich and successful and have high IQ's have a right and a place in this society. "I know that you will join me in whatever way you can to make sure that this great land of ours remains a land for all and does not become an exclusive reservation where only the privileged, the perfect and the planned have a right to live." "The next meeting of the Lee County Right to Life Committee will be Thursday, at 8 p.m., at the Knights of Columbus Home, 506 W. 3rd St. The public is invited to come and hear a recording of Dr. Jefferson's speech.

NT response to two clubs

By Oswald & James Jacoby The two notrump response to an artificial two-club opening shows at least eight high-card points and a notrump-type hand. It also should deny any worthless doubleton and if possible there should be an honor in each suit. The idea is that if the opener has a notrump hand of his own there will be no harm in letting that opening hand become dummy. With three queens and a king and 4-3-3-3 distribution, South responds two notrump. North has opened two clubs with a 23-point hand so he simply raises to three notrump. This tells South just what his hand is. South adds 9 to 23 or 24 and makes an overbid of six notrump. West opens the 10 of spades and South isn't at all happy with the dummy or his overbid. Twenty-three points plus 9 equals 32 and isn't enough for a slam, and South can only count to 11 tricks. However, lady luck smiles on him and the 12th develops because West gets squeezed.

New sex therapy brings success

By JOANNE KOCH

For many people sex is equivalent to intercourse. But many women don't reach orgasm through intercourse and some — through shyness, ignorance, inhibition or an inept partner — have never achieved orgasm under any circumstance.

Most sex therapists have tried to deal with the "inorgasmic" or "preorgasmic" woman by encouraging her to communicate to her partner as to what pleases her. But Lonnie Barbach is the first to take the step of excluding men altogether from sex therapy.

The Masters and Johnson prototype requires both male and female to participate in an intensive program led by a male-female therapy team. But Ms. Barbach, a clinical social psychologist at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, found the Masters and Johnson program left out any woman who was not involved in a marriage or ongoing relationship with a particular man.

She also felt the cost of that program — approximately $2,500 in addition to the two weeks away from home and job — was too high for most women to pay.

So in 1972 Barbach organized a group treatment program at the University of California at Berkeley for women who had never experienced an orgasm. The exclusion of males from the program was not just a consideration for single women. Barbach, in her article in the "Journal of Sex and Marital Therapy," explains that many women fear the loss of control that orgasm brings. Regulating the stimulation themselves, Barbach reasoned, would give them a greater sense of control and reduce their resistance.

Masturbation is the basic learning tool of the group treatment of preorgasmic women. Barbach based this choice on three pieces of evidence.

Masters and Johnson had found that the physiological response during orgasm was the same whether orgasm was produced by masturbation or intercourse. Freud had taught that the two were different, the former being immature, the latter mature.

Kinsley had reported in his study of female sexual behavior that 62 per cent of the women in his sample masturbated. Of those who masturbated, Kinsey reported that 96 per cent achieved orgasm.

A team working with Masters and Johnson, Drs. Lobitz and LoPiccolo, had developed a nine-step masturbation desensitization program for preorgasmic women. Working with the women individually in conjunction with a couple program, Drs. Lobitz and LoPiccolo reported 100 per cent success.

Armed with this information,

Barbach and a female co-therapist treated the first group of volunteers who ranged in age from 19 to 48. Groups consisting of six women met the 90 minutes twice a week for five weeks. They progressed from education and self-examination to masturbation.

If they had a partner they could engage in intercourse at any time, but orgasm through intercourse was never a goal. The point of the program was to help these women seek sexual satisfaction in whatever manner was acceptable — first to themselves, then to their partners.

Of the first 83 women who participated in the groups, 91.6 per cent achieved orgasm through masturbation by the end of the 10 sessions. They also reported enhanced self-esteem and increased satisfaction with intimate relationships. The male partners admitted to feeling threatened while the group was in progress. But they were very enthusiastic about the changes that eventually occurred in their female partners as the result of group treatment.

Ms. Barbach has recently written "a guide to orgasmic response" based on the program at the University of California Medical Center. The book is called "For Yourself" but it hopefully will mean that sexual enjoyment, starting with the self, becomes more than a solitary satisfaction.

Organ concert to be held

Dr. Robert Reeves, associate professor of organ and music literature at Northern Illinois University, will present an organ recital at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Nov. 16 at 4 p.m. The public is welcome to attend the concert.

He is also director of music at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Evanston, and is a well-known recitalist in the Chicago area.

Dr. Reeves is a native of Salisbury, N.C., and earned a bachelor of music degree at Greensboro College, Greensboro, N.C., and studied and received master and doctor degrees of music from Northwestern University, Evanston.

The organ on which he will perform is a Dixon product built by H. A. Howell Pipe Organs and made possible by a gift from Howell and other memorial gifts.

It is the most outstanding organ in this area with four manuals, eight division and 76 ranks of pipes. It is interesting because of its unique installation, including a state trumpet en Chamade consisting of 61 copper pipes rising high in the rear of the church.

A reception will follow the concert in the Eells Room.

Car crash claims life of Amboy man

A rural Amboy man was killed early this morning in a car accident two miles south of Dixon.

John E. "Butch" Sullivan, III, 23, was proceeding south on Ill. 26 shortly before 2 a.m. when he lost control of his car. The 1970 Chevrolet which Sullivan was driving left the right side of the highway and skidded 90 feet on loose gravel.

The vehicle then swerved across the pavement onto the left shoulder, where it traveled another 216 feet, shearing off an electrical pole and flipping over. According to reports by investigating Lee County Sheriff's deputies, Sullivan was pinned under the car after the car overturned and came to rest upside down on an embankment at the Joseph Herms farm.

Russell Bonnell, a witness to the accident, told authorities that he could find no pulse in Sullivan's body when he arrived. Lee County Coroner Robert Preston pronounced Sullivan dead at the scene.

"Multiple head injuries and internal injuries caused by the accident led to his death," Preston preliminarily reported.

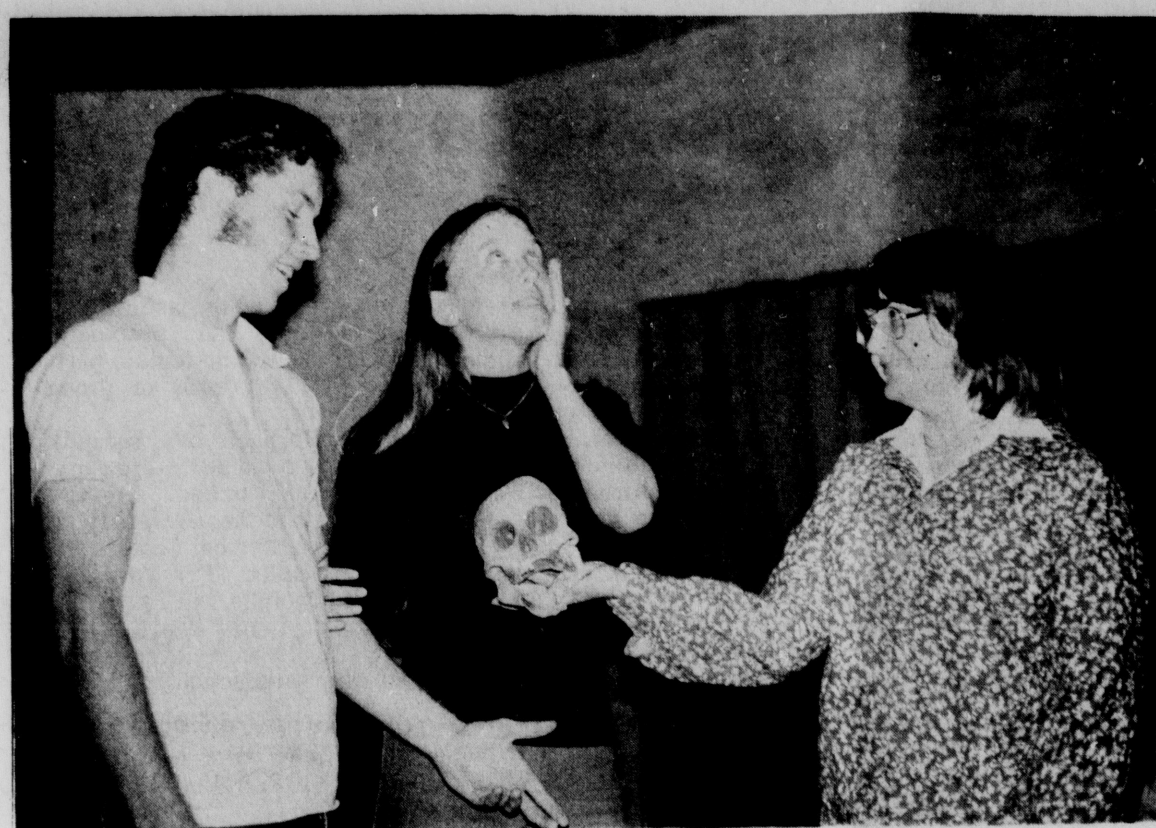

The body was taken to Jones Funeral Home by the Dixon Rural Fire Department's emergency vehicle.

Sullivan was born Aug. 14, 1952, at Amboy, the son of John E. and Edna (Benodt) Sullivan Jr., and had farmed with his father. A 1970 graduate of Amboy High School, he was a member of First Baptist Church, Amboy.

His paternal grandfather and maternal grandparents preceded him in death.

Survivors include his parents; one sister, Mrs. Randolph (Judy) Carlson, Loves Park; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hanna Sullivan, Amboy.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in First Baptist Church, Amboy. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Memorial Park. Visitation will be after 2 p.m. today in the Mihm-Jones Funeral Home, Amboy.

Sara Heckman, as Penelope Sycamore, offers Tony Kirby, played by Joe Brady, a piece of candy in the form of a skull, as her daughter Alice (Liz Slain) looks on in dismay, in the Dixon High School fall play to be presented this weekend.

DHS fall play will be presented Friday, Saturday

Dixon High School's production of the Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman comedy, "You Can't Take It With You" is in its final week of preparation, and as for any stage show, it is a hectic one.

There is the polishing of lines and characters, last-minute set changes, dress rehearsals and the mad scramble to complete costumes. The smell of greasepaint pervades as make-up is applied and perfected.

Performances will be Friday and Saturday, at 8 p.m. in the DHS auditorium. Tickets are available at the door: Adults, $1.50, Students, 75 cents.

The story revolves around the Sycamore household, where everything from ballet dancing to play writing to the manufacture of fireworks is executed, amidst utter confusion.

Martin Vanderhof, whose hobbies include attending commencements and collecting snakes, is head of the family. He likes to do things in his own way, but is really very wise.

His daughter, Penny, is an artist, turned playwright, and is constantly tapping away at her typewriter (which was delivered by mistake eight years earlier). Penny's husband, Paul, works in the basement making fireworks, which he experiments with any time of the day or night. Mr. DePinna, who came to deliver ice eight years before and just stayed, is his assistant.

Essie, Penny and Paul's eldest daughter, is a frustrated ballet dancer. Her teacher of eight years, a boisterous Russian named Kolenkhov, is almost a member of the family. He introduces a member of Russian royalty, the Grand Duchess Olga Katrina, to everyone, and she makes dinner for them.

Essie's husband, Ed Carmichael, plays the xylophone, for Essie's lessons, and operates a hand press, because he "just likes to print". He also delivers the home-made candies his wife makes in the Sycamore kitchen.

Rheba, the cook, likes to try different menus, and serves the family everything from corn flakes to watermelon. Her boyfriend, Donald, helps her out in the kitchen.

The Sycamore's other daughter, Alice, is in love with her boss's son, Anthony Kirby, Jr., vice president of Kirby & Co. Tony wants to marry Alice, but she feels the two families wouldn't get along. It begins to seem like Tony and Alice will never get married, especially when Tony brings his parents to the Sycamore's for dinner on the wrong night, and everyone is arrested. There is a happy ending for all, however.

Like most comedies, "You Can't Take It With You" is a very serious play, not somber, mind you, but serious. It seems to be about a family of crazy people. Of course, they aren't crazy at all, just happy. They have discovered the rewards of minding their own business and doing what they want to do.

364-day sentence follows guilty pleas

Joseph A. Needs, 23, Aurora was sentenced Wednesday to 364 days imprisonment at Vandalia State Penal Farm and three years probation. Circuit Judge John Rapp Jr., Mt. Carroll, sentenced Needs after guilty pleas had been entered to charges of burglary and criminal damage to property.

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Rapp told the defendant, "I find it hard to believe anything you've said today." The judge was referring to earlier testimony by Needs concerning his place of employment, testimony which was termed "an attempt to perpetrate a fraud," by State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward.

Needs testified he was employed by the Richards Wilcox Co., in Aurora. However, a check by Circuit Clerk Harold Huffman and Ward indicated no such company existed. Needs then testified he worked for a man named Richard Wilcox and gave an address in Aurora where he reported for work. That address, checked by Ward through the Aurora Police Department, was found to be non-existent. Needs still contended he worked for Wilcox. Ward told the court that before the testimony was given his office recommendation was to allow probation, "but with this I don't feel he is any longer a candidate for probation."

Judge Rapp remarked he was "puzzled," at Needs attitude.

Request to lift leaf-burning ban rejected

MT. MORRIS — A request by residents in Mt. Morris to repeal a village ordinance disallowing burning of leaves was rejected Wednesday night by the Mt. Morris Village Board. The request was rejected on a 4-2 vote following a lengthy discussion.

Marv Miller and Bob Wolber appeared before the board as representatives of the Blackhawk Snow Blazers, of Mt. Morris and Oregon. Miller and Wolber asked the board to allow a snowmobile trail through and around the village. The request was referred to the law enforcement and street department committees. A meeting set today to begin plans for chlorinating the village's water supply.

The board announced workman's compensation for village employees had increased 46.8 per cent.

Two building permits were approved by the board. Permits were approved for Carl Zellers, 302 W. Hitt, for a porch, and James Jennings, 403 W. Lincoln, for a roof over a patio.

Bills totalling $18,901.55 were approved for payment.

The board announced parking would be allowed on Wesley St. north of the Citizen's State Bank between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Heifer pulled from pool

OREGON — Blanchard and Norris Pierce roped a 600-pound heifer Wednesday which in itself isn't too newsworthy unless you look a little deeper into the story—say about six feet or so in the depths of a swimming pool at the Lewis Pierce home, rural Creston.

Ogle County Sheriff's deputies were called Wednesday after the heifer walked into the pool and was unable to get out.

But by the time deputies arrived, the animal was out of the water and moo...ing about. The Pierces said they roped the cow around the neck and began pulling.

Two tickets after accident

Donald R. Smith, 19, 403 E. Seventh St., received two traffic tickets from Dixon Police following a two-car collision Wednesday afternoon.

Smith was charged for driving with defective brakes and no registration.

Accused as Byron intruder

OREGON — A Rockford man has been accused by Ogle County Sheriff's deputies of breaking into a rural Byron home and, after being surprised by the owners, fleeing the home after pointing a gun. Kenneth R. Warner, 22, appeared before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman Wednesday, where he was released on bond. The case was continued to Nov. 24.

Deputies were called to the Maida Bridgeland home, north of Byron, on Nov. 9 after she and relatives noticed lights on in her house while driving to the home. Authorities learned Art Bridgeland, the woman's son, went to the rear of the house where he was met by a gun-wielding man who told Bridgeland to "back off." The man fled on foot into a field where deputies theorized he left in a car.

Warner's arrest followed an intensive investigation by sheriff's deputies.

Computers in the Classroom

Education has come a long way from the one-room schoolhouse, slate boards, and "McGuffey's Readers." Students are learning to use tomorrow's classroom tools today. These Findlay, Ohio, high school students, for example, took part in a computer simulation game to help them learn about starting and managing a small business. The game required them to make nine management-level decisions. At Dartmouth College in New Hampshire students use a computer with 150 terminals on the campus to take foreign language drills, do sociology research, and conduct mock science experiments, among other activities. In Philadelphia every 8th and 9th grade student takes a computer literacy course.

Compromise school aid plan offered

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight Democratic state senators who say Illinois cannot afford an override of Gov. Daniel Walker's education fund veto have proposed compromise legislation.

The group of senators met with Walker in Chicago Wednesday to request that he call a special legislative session next week for legislation that would provide $30 million for all school districts in the state.

Otherwise, it will cost the state $116 million if the Senate overrides Walker's educational vetoes, as the House has already done.

Sen. Kenneth Buzbee of Carbondale, who acted as a spokesman for the group, predicted the attempt to override the vetoes will fail in the Senate. Furthermore, he said a study of the state's fiscal status indicated there was not sufficient money to fully fund the schools for the coming year.

Others attending the meeting with Walker were Sens. Vivian Hickey of Rockford, Dawn Clark Natchez of Chicago, Bill Morris of Waukegan, Terry Bruce of Olney, Vince Demuzio of Carlinville, Jerome Joyce of Kankakee and Donald Wooten of Rock Island.

"We don't pretend to think this compromise will win us any friends from the many special interest groups and political leaders who have polarized this issue," said Buzbee. "We feel this compromise will remove the schools from this very political situation."

The fight to override the vetoes has pitted the political forces of Mayor Richard J. Daley against those of Walker.

Daley's forces say the Chicago public school system urgently needs the $32.6 million it would gain from an override to help offset a $48 million deficit it incurred in settlement of a teachers strike in September.

The compromise legislation proposed by the senators includes $22 million which would come from funds already put aside by Walker under his school aid relief plan and another $8 million from state departments reducing their operational costs, Buzbee said.

Walker also was asked to call the special session to consider legislation to change the school aid formula.

After the meeting, a spokesman for Walker said the governor would have no immediate comment on the group's request. Buzbee described Walker as "noncommittal."

Before the meeting, the eight senators were urged by the Illinois Education Association to vote for the veto override.

"We have implored the senators to continue their support of education as they have in the past," said Dr. Curtis Plott, executive secretary of the IEA. "We have asked them not to be swayed by stories that smack of political warfare, but rather be convinced by facts that show the need for educational welfare."

State traffic deaths dip

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — There were 44 fewer deaths on Illinois highways in October than there were during the same month in 1974, the Illinois Department of Transportation says.

The DOT report Wednesday showed 149 persons were killed in Illinois traffic accidents in October, 23 per cent fewer deaths than were reported for the month last year.

It was only the third monthly comparison, however, which showed fewer deaths this year than last year.

Service station is burglarized

Dixon Police were notified Wednesday of a burglary at Dick's Standard Station, 118 N. Galena Avenue.

The burglary, which was believed to have occurred the previous evening, resulted in a loss of tools and equipment valued at $218. Thieves entered the building through a window in a restroom in the rear of the station.

On the front: Gilbert Stuart's Thomas Jefferson.

On the back: Trumbull's "Signing of the Declaration of Independence."

cause plans call for as many of them to be printed as there are the traditional "ones."

The $2 bills were discontinued in 1966 because the public seemed to shun them. Superstition and moral stigma were attached to them.

Inflation has revived the "deuce." The U.S. Treasury hopes to save millions on production costs, since fewer $1 bills will have to be printed.

The bills will not be collectors' items since about 400 million are scheduled to be printed each year. The older $2 bills, however, will not lose their value to collectors, with worth ranging from $2.25 to $500.

Priest ready to bar believers in visions

By TIMOTHY CURRAN
Associated Press Writer

NECEDAH, Wis. (AP) — "I stood at the door waiting, but none of them showed up," said the Rev. James Barney, pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church in this tiny central Wisconsin community. "I wasn't going to let them in if they did."

"They" are the "Van Hoofs" or "shriners" — followers of Mary Ann Van Hoof, a 66-year-old widow who claims to have had visions of the Blessed Virgin since 1949.

Father Barney's decision to bar her followers from attending Mass at his church has increased the split between the Roman Catholic Church and Mrs. Van Hoof's disciples.

It is a split which the priest estimates has cut parish membership of about 750 by more than half; has caused parish income to drop by 44 per cent from the first to the third quarter; and has some "Van Hoofs" talking about building their own church.

The division began when a former bishop of the Diocese of La Crosse denounced her claims as false in 1955. Then early this year Mrs. Van Hoof and six of her key followers were placed under interdict by the current bishop, the Most Rev. Frederick Freking. Interdict, a rarely invoked censure, forbids access to any church sacraments except confession.

Despite the opposition from the official church, Mrs. Van Hoof contends that she has continued to receive visions and messages from heaven. Her followers have erected a series of shrines on her former farm, several hundred persons have moved to Necedah and others make regular pilgrimages to pray there.

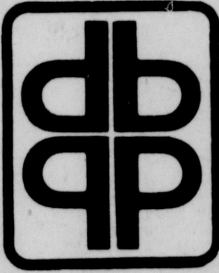

Mrs. Van Hoof and her followers continued to attend Mass at St. Francis after Bishop Freking issued his letters of interdict in April. But since August Father Barney has refused communion to all persons unwilling to demonstrate their public renunciation of the Necedah shrine and its related activities.

The priest, who has been in the parish since 1974, had hinted at plans to keep the shriners out of the church entirely, and on Sunday announced the new policy in his sermon and parish bulletin advising the Van Hoofs to look for another church to attend.

One of Mrs. Van Hoof's followers and a close friend, Betty Walkershauser, said, "He kicked us out, so now they can't say we left the church. We stuck by it to the last. This is a great victory for us. Now we can go ahead and build our own church."

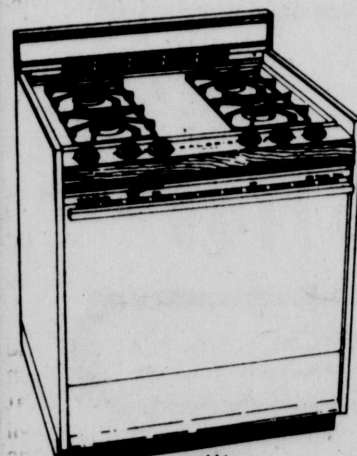

On Wednesday, Father Barney went one step further. He stationed himself at the front door before Mass, prepared to turn away any of Mrs. Van Hoof's followers who attempted to enter. None showed up.

Diabetes symptoms from blood pressure medicine

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — About a year and a half ago my doctor said I had high blood pressure and put me on medicine. In a short time my tests showed I was low on potassium, and he put me on potassium medicine and gradually increased it because my level was so low.

Then he did a glucose test and said I'm a borderline diabetic. If I understand what I read, sometimes when there is no diabetes in the family and it shows up, it can be caused by high blood pressure medicine. Is this so?

If my blood pressure is causing the problem why can't they just give me other medicines? I know there are other medicines they can use. Also I'm 52 and going through the menopause. I'm somewhat overweight and trying to lose, as I need surgery for a bladder repair. I have a fibroid tumor, so the doctor won't give me hormones for my hot flashes. He says it will cause me to bleed badly. Is it true that fibroid tumors sometimes dry up after the change in life? I have been to two doctors, and one says surgery now, the other to wait until I get my weight down.

DEAR READER — I see you are really having a time. First, please make every effort to lose weight as it may help relieve your blood pressure and high blood sugar problems.

You are right, some high blood pressure medicines will cause the blood sugar to be high. It is often stated, though, that they merely unmask an underlying diabetic, but you are beginning to get on theoretical ground there. The same types of medicine can and will cause the loss of potassium. And I would tend to agree that there are other medicines that could be used. The medicine used to eliminate salt and water that causes these problems, though, is very useful in combination with other medicines. The combination usually makes it possible to handle a patient's problem without so much risk of complications from the medicines.

Another problem with glucose tolerance tests is that they will give a result similar to that in a diabetic if the person has not been eating any carbohydrates recently. Unless the patient is properly prepared for the test, it is of limited usefulness.

Estrogen hormones do enable fibroids to grow. If they are just under the lining of the uterus, hormones may cause you to bleed. And, some fibroids do shrink after the menopause. In general people do better during and after surgery if they have no weight problems. Nevertheless when it needs to be done surgery can be done in really quite heavy people. I suspect your surgeon thinks he will get a better result if he is able to operate after you have lost weight.

Meanwhile I would suggest making every effort you can to lose weight to try to get out of this combined mess you are confronted with.

Gowdy slams Barnett

LARRY BARNETT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Network sportscaster Curt Gowdy says baseball umpire Larry Barnett was unfair in blaming him for hate mail and death threats which followed a controversial World Series call.

"That play didn't create controversy just on television," Gowdy said Wednesday from his radio station here. "They really did a rip job in some of the papers."

Barnett, an American League umpire, has said that 95 per cent of his mail mentioned Gowdy and Tony Kubek during the telecast of the third game of the Series. That's when Barnett refused to call interference on pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister of the Cincinnati Reds.

Armbrister bunted for a sacrifice in the 10th inning with the score tied. The ball bounced a few feet in front of home plate, Armbrister and Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk collided, then Fisk threw wildly past second on an attempted force out. The play enabled the Cincinnati runner to continue to third and he scored the winning run a few minutes later.

Barnett, the youngest umpire in the majors when he joined stepped in to investigate the threats and Boston police had to provide protection for Barnett and his family. Cincinnati won the Series four games to three.

"I think they were unfair to me," Barnett said of Gowdy and Kubek during an interview at Prospect, Ohio, his winter home. "The rule book backs me 100 per cent. They don't know the rules."

To a great degree, the controversy was whether intent was involved in the collision. Barnett said at the time that intent could not be proven, therefore there was no cause to call Armbrister out for interference.

"I think he thought he made the right call," Gowdy said. "But we thought it was interference." He insisted the slow-motion replay showed Barnett was wrong.

Gowdy said he had said good things about Barnett, too. "In the seventh game, I said it was a shame anyone had to threaten Larry Barnett's life, that he had come in for a lot of pressure in Boston," Gowdy said. "We noted that all of the officials were in their first World Series, and I said they all did an excellent job."

the American League seven years ago, said the controversial play was just a breakthrough from the plate.

"Armbrister broke for first base," he said. "Fisk broke for the ball. There was a collision. When Fisk fielded the ball, he was not obstructed on his throw to second base."

The reports of the death threats surfaced several days later when the teams returned to Boston for the final two games of the Series. The FBI

In the professional sports world Bloodletting is not over

By CRAIG AMMERMAN

AP Sports Writer

The worst economic crisis to confront professional sports in recent history has caused the death of 12 teams and one league in the past month, and the bloodletting is far from finished.

Escalating salaries, labor problems, legal challenges and the threat of intervention by Congress and federal agencies have combined with the pressures of inflation to produce an atmosphere in which more teams and perhaps another league or two will cease to exist.

Major league baseball, with its big stadiums, low ticket prices and numerous games, is generally in good financial shape.

The folding of the World Football League and of the San Diego and Baltimore franchises in the American Basketball Association are part of a trend that seems certain to continue: It is the shrinking of a professional sports world that is too big, too expensive and too complex to exist on reasonable economic terms.

When the 10-team WFL ended its 18-month life in which $30 million was lost, league President Chris Hemminger said, "We will not be the last to go." He was right. The San Diego ABA team ceased operations on Tuesday, and other teams in several sports are in trouble.

The expansionism of the late 1960s, when promoters such as Gary Davidson created leagues at will, is over. The structure of most sports is in question at the courts and their future is in question at the box office.

The average salary in pro basketball is $100,000. In pro hockey, it is $70,000. The National Hockey League lost its television contract and the National Basketball Association's ratings are weak. The other leagues—the ABA and World Hockey Association—are without TV income.

In the 1974-75 season, 25 of the 28 pro basketball teams lost money. It is estimated that 15 lost in excess of $1 million. An estimated 23 of the 32 pro hockey teams lost money.

Last year, each of the 26 teams in the National Football League received a record $2.2 million in revenue from TV contracts. Yet a record eight teams lost money.

One reason is higher salaries: for example, a spokesman for the Washington Redskins said the average Redskin player made $25,000 in 1970. Now, the average is $54,000.

The NFL is not likely to go under. The same can't be said for basketball's ABA or hockey's WHA.

The WHA held a league meeting earlier this week, and one official emerged to say, "I would not be surprised if two or three teams dropped out of our league before the end of the season."

The ABA's problems may be more critical. As league officials work on printing their third different schedule in a month, as many as three of the eight remaining teams are reported in some financial trouble.

Sox sign agreement

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox have signed a working agreement to contract the Iowa Oaks in Des Moines as a farm club, White Sox officials say.

Club officials announced the agreement Wednesday.

The White Sox had operated with the Oaks, a member of the American Association in 1973 and 1974, but contracted with the Denver Bears of the same league in 1975. The Houston Astros used Iowa as their farm club in 1975.

Loren Babe, the 1975 coach at Denver, will manage the club in Des Moines. Houston has moved its farm operations to Memphis and Montreal has contracted with Denver for next year.

NOT ENOUGH— Tony DiRienzo, who scored Oklahoma's only points with a 52-yard field goal, walks dejectedly from the field at Norman after a 23-3 loss to Kansas in a stunning upset. The loss snapped the Sooners' 37-game winning streak. (AP Wirephoto)

Flyers edge Sabres

By The Associated Press

"Do we have a jinx over Buffalo?" pondered Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero. "I don't know but I hope so."

"I don't believe in jinxes but there must be something ..."

Shero's Flyers met the Sabres Wednesday night for the first time since the two battled it out in the finals of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs last season. Philadelphia won that time and they won this time too, posting a 3-1 victory. Buffalo has lost eight times and tied once in its last nine regular-season meetings with the Flyers.

"I know we can't always play as well as we did tonight," said Shero, "but we keep beating them."

Elsewhere in the NHL, California whipped the New York Islanders 5-1, Atlanta edged Kansas City 2-1, Chicago tied the New York Rangers 4-4 and Pittsburgh and Washington skated to a 6-6 standoff.

There was just one game played in the World Hockey Association and New England won it 4-1 over Houston.

Philadelphia broke on top against the Sabres on Reggie Leach's goal just 45 seconds into the second period. Fred Stanfield tied it for Buffalo late in period but Orest Kindrachuk put the Flyers back on top two minutes later. Don Saleski added an insurance goal for the winners in the final period.

It was Buffalo's first loss at home this season after nine victories and a tie.

"We couldn't get anything going," admitted Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith. "Everything we did was wrong. You play games like that. Unfortunately we had to play one against Philadelphia."

Seals 5, Islanders 1

California rookie Dennis Maruk scored his third short-handed goal of the season — most ever by a rookie — and teammate Gary Sabourin added his seventh goal in the last five games. The Islanders lost for only the third time in 15 games this season.

Flames 2, Scouts 1

Rey Comeau and Curt Bennett got the Atlanta goals and Guy Charron scored for Kansas City. The Flames outshot the Scouts 40-29.

Black Hawks 4, Rangers 4

Ivan Boldirev scored his second goal of the game with 2:59 left to give Chicago the draw. Rick Middleton connected twice for New York. The Hawks haven't lost in seven games and the Rangers haven't won in four.

Capitals 6, Penguins 6

Washington's Hartland Monahan and Pittsburgh's Jean Pronovost scored three goals apiece. It was the Caps' first point at home this season.

Area roundup

ORANGEVILLE— Franklin Center evened its Upstate Illini record at 1-1, here, Wednesday in a girls interscholastic contest versus Orangeville. Franklin Center won the varsity contest 20-14 and 20-13. The "B" squad lost in a three-game set, 18-20, 20-14 and 16-20.

Franklin Center is now 2-4 for the year on the varsity level and its next match is at home versus Ashton next Tuesday.

Look out for Milwaukee

By The Associated Press
The National Basketball Association season is young and it's still too early to tell how the Milwaukee Bucks will do without Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

But if it's anything like the past two nights, look out! The Bucks, who traded away Jabbar during the off-season in a blockbuster deal with the Los Angeles Lakers, looked like they didn't miss the NBA superstar while humiliating the Philadelphia 76ers for the second night in a row Wednesday, 107-84. The bad beating came on top of a 108-81 thrashing the night before.

"Some teams are more difficult to play than others," pointed out Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello. "The 76ers play with a certain pattern, they do have a certain number of plays."

"Defense was the key tonight," Costello noted. "We're trying to develop a fast-break attack so that Elmore Smith can dominate defensively as well as Jabbar."

The second straight runaway Milwaukee victory left Philadelphia's Doug Collins slightly dazed.

"We don't seem to bounce back like we should," said Collins, the 76ers' high scorer with 24 points. "We didn't seem to have fire in our eyes tonight. I was disappointed and frustrated."

Bobby Dandridge scored 29 points as Milwaukee humbled Philadelphia. The lead changed hands six times in the first half, but the Bucks never trailed after two Brian Winters free throws gave them a 38-37 advantage with 3:57 left in the second period.

Hawks 109, Pistons 106
Forward John Drew drilled in 27 points, 18 in the third period, as Atlanta fought off Detroit. Drew's scoring heroics enabled the Hawks to overcome a five-point deficit early in the third period and shoot them into a lead they never relinquished.

Braves 93, Rockets 80
Bob McAdoo scored 33 points and picked up 21 rebounds and Randy Smith pumped in 26 additional points as Buffalo beat Houston. McAdoo, who missed Tuesday night's game against Washington with a strained tendon, scored 17 points in the third quarter to increase a one-point halftime lead to seven, 67-60, going into the fourth quarter and the Rockets never caught up.

Lakers 116, Jazz 100
Los Angeles, behind a 33-point performance by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, handed New Orleans its fourth straight loss. Taking an early lead and building on it until the middle of the fourth quarter, Los Angeles never looked back as the road-weary Jazz could do nothing to stop the Lakers' fast break.

Kings 107, SuperSonics 92
Scott Wedman poured in 28 points and Jimmy Walker added 22 as Kansas City defeated Seattle. The victory was Kansas City's first of the season on the road after four losses. For the slumping Sonics, the defeat was Seattle's fifth in its past six games.

ABA Results
It's a bird, it's a plane ... well, actually it is a bird. Bird Averitt.

Kentucky's great shooter was flying high Wednesday night, scoring 31 points as the Colonels walloped the Spirits of St. Louis 98-81 in the American Basketball Association.

"I had a good night," Averitt said, "but I'm more glad we won the game — we have so much to prove, we're the defending champs."

Not only did Averitt contribute a season-high point total to the Colonels' victory, but Kentucky's Birdman also collected eight assists and held Spirits guard Freddie Lewis to just eight points — 11 below his average.

"I thought he did a tremendous job of applying pressure to Lewis," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "Freddie had an off-night, but I think that Bird had something to do with it."

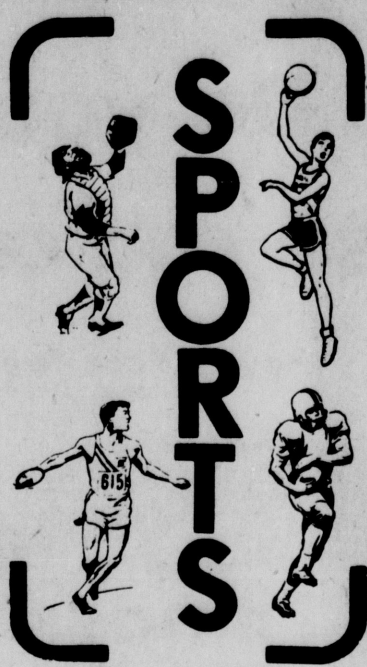

In the other ABA games, the Utah Stars humbled the New York Nets 134-114 and the San Antonio Spurs drubbed the Virginia Squires 144-112. Averitt and Louie Dampier sparked a Kentucky surge early in the second half, leading the Colonels to their easy victory. While the Spirits missed their first 17 shots of the second half, the two Kentucky guards picked apart the St. Louis defense as the Colonels won for the seventh time in eight games.

Dampier pumped in four long jump shots and Averitt hit three layups before the Spirits scored their first field goal 4½ minutes into the quarter.

Center Maurice Lucas scored 27 points to top St. Louis, which held slim leads in the first half before Kentucky pulled ahead for a 43-41 lead at intermission. Kentucky center Artis Gilmore contributed 14 points and a game-high 19 rebounds.

Stars 134, Nets 114
Last-place Utah snapped out of a five-game losing streak as Ron Boone scored 35 points to lead the Stars over New York. The Utah starting lineup played most of the way and all five starters ended up in double figures. After Boone, it was John Roche with 28, Steven Green with 21, Jim Eakins 19 and Randy Denton 18.

YMCA Youth Basketball Program

The deadline for registering boys and girls in the YMCA Youth Basketball Association (YBA) has been changed to Saturday.

The YBA program is for boys and girls in the third through sixth grades. Value education is the key to the program with emphasis on fair play, fun, physical fitness, fundamentals and teamwork. All participants will play regardless of individual abilities. League standings will not be kept for any teams and there are no trophies to be awarded at the end of the year for most valuable player, high scorer, league champions, etc. The idea of the program is for boys and girls to enjoy the game of basketball for rewards other than competitive and winning objectives.

The regular season games will begin in January and practices will begin in December. The third grade boys and girls will play on short courts at a lower basket height of 8'6" and also using a junior size basketball. Games for the third graders will not be scored but time will be kept. All age teams will play four six-minute quarters. The 4th, 5th, and 6th grade boys and girls will play on regular length courts, use regulation size basketballs and basket height.

Parents of players who would like to help out with the YBA program in coaching, refereeing, scorekeeping, etc., are encouraged to contact the YMCA and indicate how they would like to help out. Parents' support and participation is a key factor to the success of the program.

The YBA program is a cooperative effort of the YMCA and NBA as a local community program emphasizing that there is much more to learn from athletic sports than competition. The NBA in supporting the YBA has indicated that a player from the National Basketball Players Association will send one of their players to Dixon in December for a four hour basketball clinic for youths in the program.

For more information on the YBA program Randy Ullrich, Dixon YMCA Program Director, will be at the Y this Saturday morning between 9:30 and 11 a.m., to answer other questions you may have about the program. Parents are encouraged to come and ask questions about the program and register their son or daughter on Saturday or during the week at the Dixon YMCA.

Registration fees have been set at $9 for Y members and $12 for Non Y members. No child will be turned away because of not being able to pay their registration fees. Those that need financial assistance should contact the YMCA Program Department at 284-3312.

MAJOR COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

Just for a change of pace — rather than discuss the same familiar football fondries for the entire column — how about the Ivy League where football is still played for fun... we think! Brown, the door-mat of the conference for years and years and... meets Harvard Saturday in a game that could decide the championship. Harvard was upset by Princeton last week... Brown was tied earlier in the season by Dartmouth. We think the Bruins from Providence are going to win the big one... Brown is favored by just one over the Harvard Crimson. Nope, not quite fondry time yet... It's been interesting this fall to follow one of the new major college football teams... Arkansas State, located in State University in northeast Arkansas. The Indians are undefeated, having just won their ninth straight game. Their power quotient of 91.3 puts them, believe it or not, just five points below our twentieth-ranked team. They're a real powerhouse out of the Southland Conference. Ok... It's Foundry Time! Notre Dame - Pittsburgh... this has to be a real close one. The Irish are two-time losers and the Panthers lost their third game last Saturday. Notre Dame whipped Georgia Tech last week while Pitt was up-ended by West Virginia. In a real coin-flipper, Notre Dame by three. Among the leading teams in our Top 20, Oklahoma is the only one that once again might have a problem. They meet Big 8 rival Missouri, and Missouri has to be one of the best three-time losers in the nation. The Sooners meet Nebraska a week from Saturday, and if Missouri doesn't catch them looking ahead, Oklahoma should win by 4. Minnesota played Michigan on close to even terms two weeks ago, losing only by seven points. However, we don't think they can repeat that effort against Ohio State. The Bucks are favored over the Gophers by 23 points. The old (in its 19th year) crystal ball really rolled around in ecstasy two Saturdays ago as it came up with another strong forecasting weekend. It hit 80 per cent on all games to bring the average through Saturday, November 1st, to .767. This is based on 1,277 right and 389 wrong. There have been 37 ties.

BOB HARMON PREDICTS THE PROS SUNDAY, NOV. 16

San Francisco 20 Bears and 49ers both fighting to stay out of basements in their respective divisions... neither succeeding too well. San Francisco playing at home... should dominate by seven.
Oakland 24 When Raiders exploded against Broncos two Sundays ago, it simply meant "we're back!" Browns have had trouble stopping everybody, so we're expecting another big whumping.
Dallas 26 Cowboys again locked in tight race in NFC East with Cards and Redskins. Unhappy and injured Patriots at bottom of AFC East. Dallas nine-point favorite away from home.
Denver 19 Chargers offense finally came alive against Giants two weeks ago. This is AFC West game that could be settled by... a safety? Teams split in head-to-head in 1974.
Detroit 23 Not completely convinced that Lions should have that 3-point edge. "Barr's Boys" from GB did well against Vikings. Outcome here will depend again on Detroit QB situation.
Pittsburgh 30 Old cliché, but every game a "must" for '74 Super Bowl champion Steelers in close race in AFC Central. Chiefs on road after Monday niter... just too tough an assignment.
Los Angeles 30 Rams' schedule for remainder of season, with exception of final game against Steelers, looks like pre-arranged championship! L.A. won first game, 22-7. Falcons hurting.

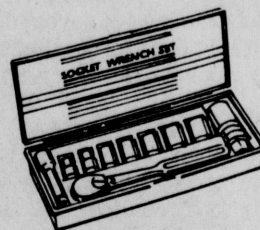

Miami 27 Apologies, Oiler fans... Pastorini, not Anderson! This should be great duel between Griese and Pastorini. Oilers coming off battle with Steelers... Dolphins hosted Jets.
Minnesota 27 Saints' Archie Manning turned on the juice two Sundays ago to whip Falcons. They're 17-point underdogs at home against Tarkenton and crew. Saints hope for Vike let-down.
Baltimore 24 Colts whipped Jets, 45-28, in earlier meeting between these AFC East rivals. Jets had Bills on ropes two weeks ago before losing by just one. This is home game for Colts.
New York Giants 23 Giants have had problems this season with offense, etc., but Eagles, at least after being slaughtered 42-3 by Rams, have problems on top of problems. Watch 'em upset NY!
Washington 28 Re-match between two of three leaders in NFC Eastern Division. Skins won first game in Washington, 27-17. Redskins stayed on top with recent sudden-death win over Cowboys.
Buffalo 31 Great Monday nite match between Joe Ferguson and Ken Anderson with a little O.J. "gravy" thrown in. In contrast to couple of recent Monday games, this should be fine football!
Cincinnati 27 Gotta smile while we can in this "upsetting" business... footballs bounce in different directions each week. Two weeks ago we picked 12 of 13, bringing season's totals thru Monday, November 3rd, to 69 right, 22 wrong, for a rather sunshiny average of .758.

Open house at City Garage set Sunday

THE Dixon Street Department has moved into its new City Garage on Ill. 38 just west of Dixon Airport. The new facility will be unveiled to the public Sunday in an open house from 2 to 5 p.m.

The new quarters replace the old garage at Fifth Street and Monroe Avenue. The city is currently taking bids on the sale of the old garage.

At Sunday's open house, the new garage, as well as the city's array of equipment, will be on display. Employees will be on hand to answer questions. Refreshments will be served.

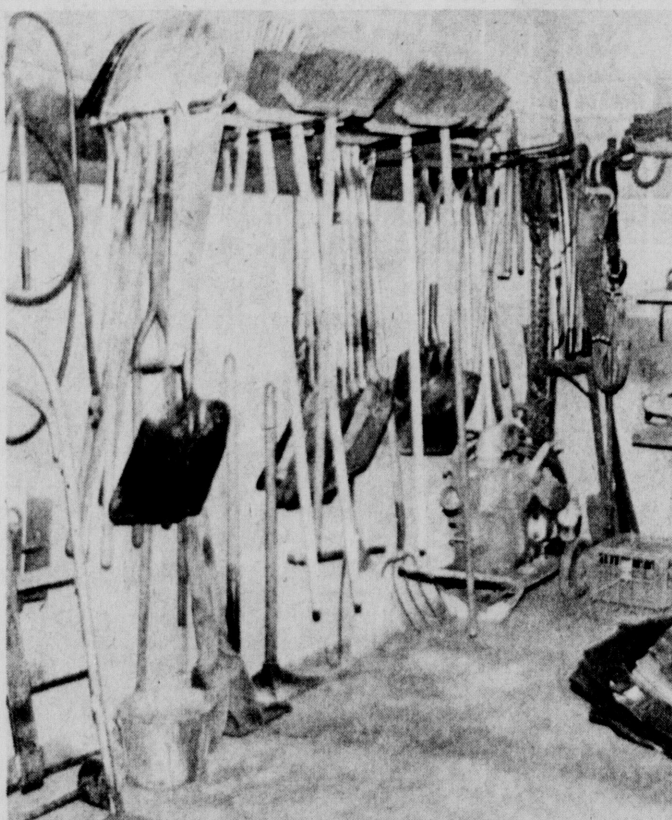

Commissioner Thomas Densmore and Supt. Charles Sterricker are shown in Sterricker's new office.

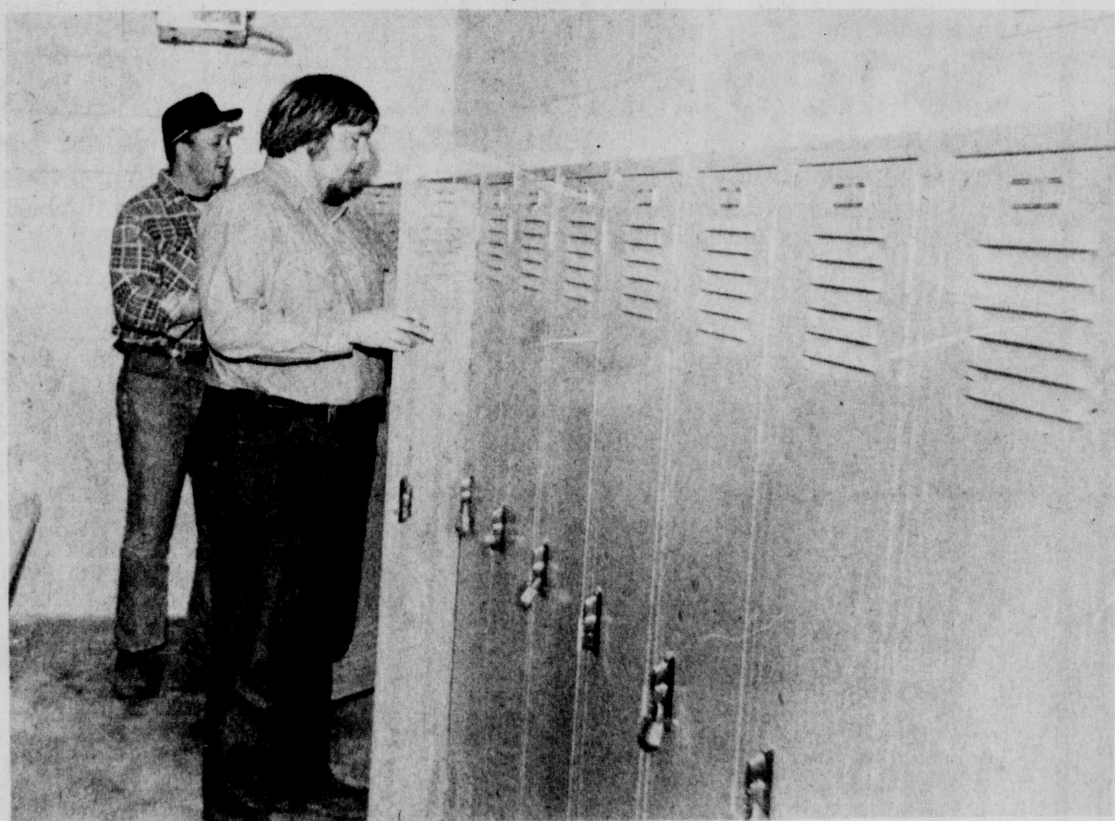

Wayne Needham, radio operator, with the new system which uses a phone both for the radio and as an intercom system.

Larger equipment such as this end loader, driven by Dave Gugerty, has plenty of room to maneuver.

A tool storage room is spacious.

Ken Buccola and Joe Healy are shown in the new employee locker room.

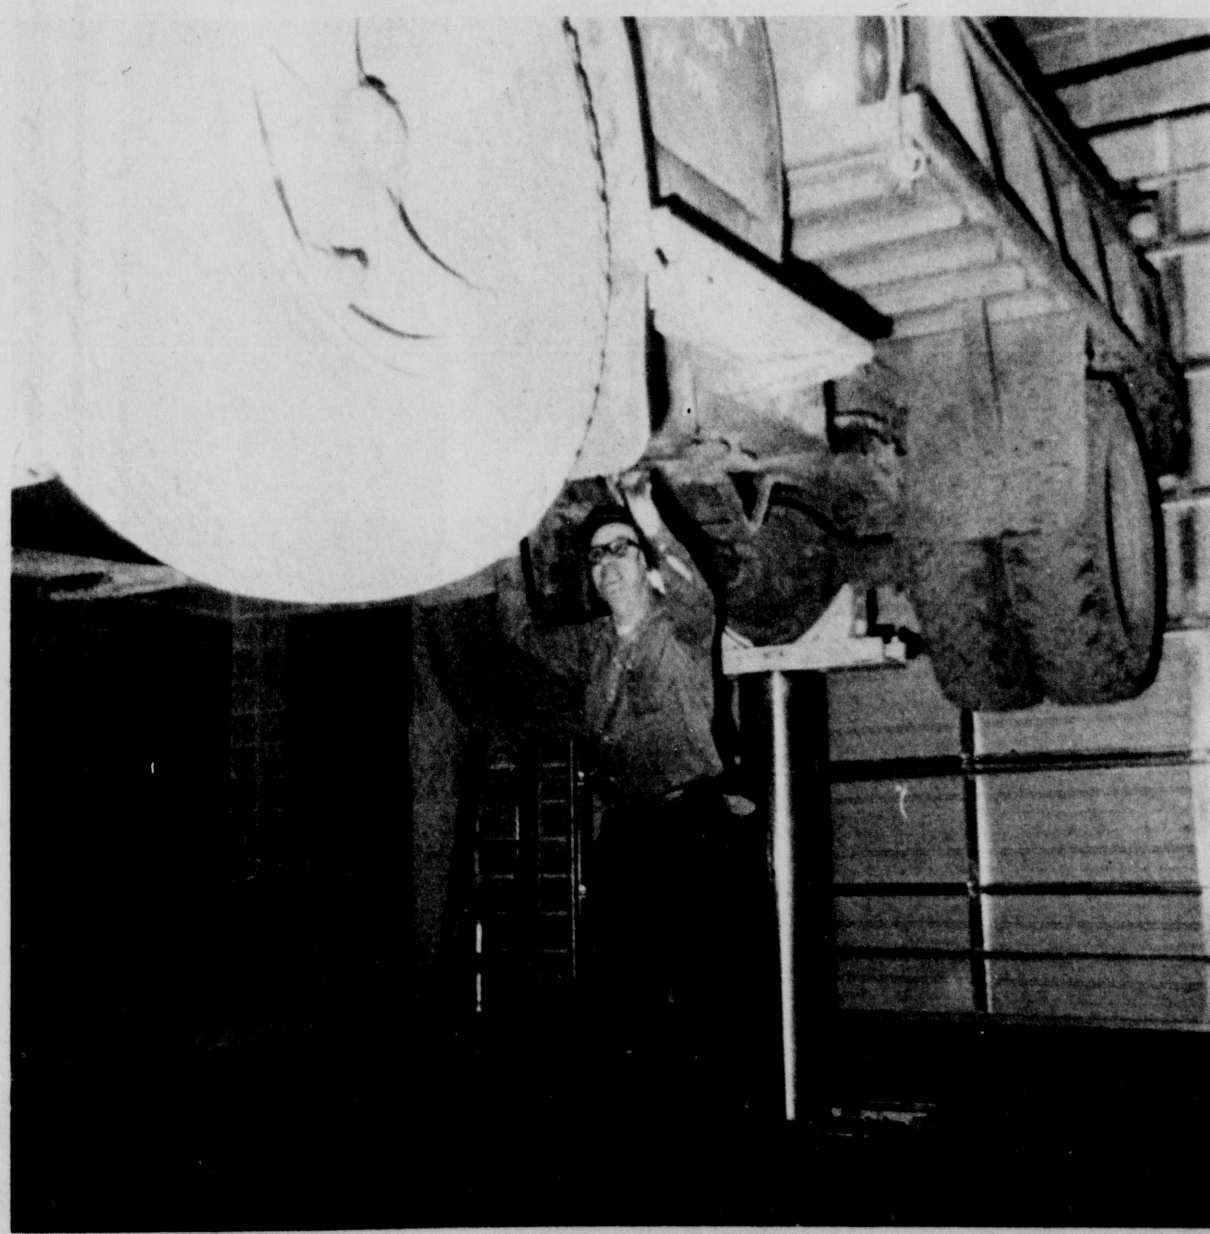

Outside pumps dispense both regular, ethyl gasoline, as well as diesel fuel. Dave Herman fills a truck.

Challenges self-service ban

MILAN, Ill. (AP) — An Illinois regulation barring self-service gasoline pumps is being challenged by a service station operator who says the ban is costing motorists at least two to four cents more per gallon of gasoline.

Most other states have self-service gasoline, and James F. Hollon wants it badly enough in Illinois that he was willing to go to court.

"(Self-service) gasoline is here, and it's here to stay," he said. "Illinois is going to have to stay with the rest of the United States."

Hollon said he recently began offering self-service gasoline at his station, aware it was barred by the state. One day last week an assistant state fire marshal showed up.

"We had a self-service sign there. He warned me I was in violation of the law," recalls Hollon. "I said, 'I realize I am, and I don't think the law is right. Then he filled his tank to prove I did violate the law.'"

Hollon pleaded innocent in circuit court to violating the regulation, and was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond. He indicates that if he is found guilty, he may take the case further.

"I imagine we will (appeal), though I'm not going to say," said Hollon. "That's up to my lawyer."

The Liberty Bell is and has been depicted throughout much of the world as a symbol of victory of freedom over tyranny, but contrary to popular belief, it was not rung on July 4, 1776, proclaiming the Declaration of Independence. Four days later, on July 8, the Liberty Bell rang when the Declaration was presented officially. The bell gathered those within earshot before the State House and the Declaration was read to them by Philadelphia's sheriff. He was Col. John Nixon, long since overshadowed in history. The World Almanac notes, by a distant kinsman, the 37th president of the United States.

High court to study drug case

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A St. Clair County case seeking to make it easier to obtain stiff prison sentences for convicted drug pushers is being considered by the Illinois Supreme Court.

The court heard arguments on the case Tuesday and took the matter under advisement. At issue is a section of the state's Controlled Substances Act which provides a graduated scale of penalties for selling a drug based on the drug's weight.

However, the weight of the drug is based on the "substance containing" the drug. For example, if a person were convicted of delivering 1,000 capsules of a barbiturate, the sentence would depend on the combined weight of the drug and the capsules which contain the drug.

Likewise, sentencing of a person convicted of selling LSD-laced sugar cubes would be based on the weight of the cubes.

"In the case of a minor possessing liquor, that would be like providing a greater penalty because the scotch was mixed with water," defense attorney Stephen B. Hurley told the court.

St. Clair County State's Atty. Robert Rice, who brought the case, said in an interview the courts have been reluctant to proceed with some drug cases because of uncertainty of the law, and "we're going nowhere with our drug program."

He added that prosecutors in other counties in Illinois also are waiting for a ruling on whether that portion of the law is constitutional.

The case before the court involves Ricky Mayberry of Cahokia who was named in three indictments in July 1974 charging him with delivery of more than 200 grams of derivatives of barbituric acids.

Last January a Circuit Court judge dismissed the indictments and the case never went to trial.

Rice, who was represented in oral arguments by Asst. Atty. Gen. Tracy Resch, asked the Supreme Court to reverse the lower court and reinstate the indictments.

Under the law, Mayberry on conviction could have been sentenced to prison for a minimum of four years and a maximum of life. But Hurley, Mayberry's court appointed defender, said if the capsules containing the drug were not included in the weight, the maximum penalty could have been three years in prison.

Budget squabbles an annual feature

EDITOR'S NOTE: New York City says it is close to the day when it can't pay its bills. Nearly two years of fiscal crises have preceded a threatened city default. Part two of a three-part series looks at some of the recent history of the crisis.

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — An annual feature of New York City's rough-and-tumble politics has been the budget battle between mayors and the city's chief fiscal officers, the independently elected comptrollers.

The political stakes in those battles have always been the mayoralty, and Mayor Abraham D. Beame, when he was comptroller in the 1960s, fought long and loud with former Mayor John V. Lindsay over budgets.

But in June 1974, Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin opened a battle with Mayor Beame that became more bitter than any in memory.

Many now say the Goldin-Beame rift and the resulting blow to investor confidence in the city's management and candor, marks the beginning of a year-and-a-half-old chain of crises that has pushed the city to the edge of financial collapse.

In his opening shot on June 6, 1974, Goldin claimed that the 1975 Beame budget proposal was $87 million in the red, and criticized $700 million in questionable budget balancing tactics.

"Are you suggesting that $700 million be cut from the budget?" Beame responded angrily. "If so, where do you suggest we cut?"

Four days before Goldin's comment, state Comptroller Arthur Levitt had accused the city of using hundreds of millions of borrowed dollars improperly to fund expense items such as library books, architect fees, and even interest on other bonds. Those statements brought further uneasiness to the bond market.

The next time the city went to the market — which a year later would be completely closed to it — these comments led to an 8.58 per cent interest rate on its note, the highest rate in the city's history to that date.

Beame, meanwhile, more confident after getting state approval of his $11.1-billion budget plus $270-million in new taxing authority to help balance it, hinted there might be a deficit at the end of the year but added he saw no room for budget cuts.

The Goldin-Beame rift reached new heights on Nov. 30, 1974, when Goldin charged the city's budget gap was $650 million, $250 million higher than Beame's estimates.

Three days after Goldin's comments, the city was forced to accept a new-record 9.48 per cent interest rate to float a $600 million note.

Beame blamed Goldin for the high rate, saying: "It was poor judgment and unfortunate. Coming as it did before a note sale, undoubtedly it was reflected in the incredibly high interest rate."

Meanwhile Beame, prior to the note sale, ordered $100 million in budget economies including 1,500 layoffs. He rejected as "too harsh" proposals for 20,000 layoffs.

Later in December, Beame in a "Phase II" of budget austerities announced 3,725 city employees would be cut from the payrolls, bringing total job cuts in the 1975 fiscal year to nearly 8,000.

On Jan. 7, 1975, the city received one bid on a $620 million note issue, and Beame and Goldin termed the 9.4 per cent rate "unfair, unwarranted and outrageously high," adding that it "raises serious questions about the city's current treatment by lending institutions."

The city's unions, particularly the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association covering police, grew restive as Beame's austerities gathered steam. The PBA threatened strike action Jan. 15 if uniformed police were laid off.

Beame persuaded city unions to forego certain contract rights and announced no more layoffs were needed to balance his 1975 budget. But he warned on Feb. 15 that the 1976 budget due to be submitted in June would be $1.68 billion out of balance without new taxes and state and federal aid.

Meanwhile the market for city bonds on Wall Street was collapsing. Bond buyers, already jittery about the city's declining credibility, were faced on Feb. 25 with the default by the state Urban Development Corp. of $104 million in notes. It was the first major government agency to fail to pay its debts on time since the Depression.

Three days later, with big city banks demanding hard facts on the city's budget health, Goldin announced cancellation of a $260 million note sale. Goldin declined the banks' request for information, stating that it "could not physically be compiled, checked and certified in the short time available."

On March 6, the city floated a $537 million bond anticipation note at 8.69 per cent. It proved to be the last time the city successfully raised money on the bond market.

On April 2, Standard & Poor's bond rating service suspended its "A" rating on the city's general obligation bonds, because of the city's "rapidly deteriorating ability to raise money in the capital markets," and "the inability or unwillingness of the major underwriting banks to continue to purchase the city's bonds and notes."

Two days later, city officials admitted that only 2,000 layoffs had been carried out under the mayor's austerity program. At the same time, the state took the heat off the city's cash crisis temporarily by advancing $400 million in revenue sharing money. Attention shifted to the 1976 budget.

Up to the last minute in June, Beame practiced the customary brinkmanship in trying to sell the state government on a $12.8 billion budget with a $641.5 million deficit. The earlier $1.68 billion budget gap estimate was lowered by $880 million by a proposed property tax hike.

This year, an unsympathetic state legislature and financial community wouldn't accept that sort of budget. Meanwhile, President Ford rejected a city request for $1 billion in aid, the first rejection of many from Washington.

Beame responded by submitting an alternative "crisis budget" of $11.9 billion involving 51,000 job layoffs and raising fears of service cuts that might be dangerous to civil peace in the city.

On the night of June 10, with the city faced with default on $700 million in debts the next day, Gov. Hugh Carey introduced a new word and agency into the crisis — Big MAC, a nickname for the state-authored Municipal Assistance Corp.

The formation of MAC enabled the city and state to piece together enough cash to stave off default last June, through issuance of MAC bonds backed by sales and security taxes.

Weeks later, Beame agreed reluctantly to a $12.087 billion budget for fiscal 1976, which he said would "in one cruel stroke" end the jobs of 30,000 city workers.

A five-month ceasefire between Goldin and Beame ended that month, when Goldin in a confidential report said the city's "hidden deficit" — the result of years of budget juggling and questionable accounting — was $1.8 billion. City and state officials later conceded that the true deficit accumulated over the year was $3.3 billion.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE F-622: Dr. Zee, aged 26, asks the same questions that may have puzzled many of you alert readers.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am surprised that the answer to cancer hasn't been found."
"For I read recently that Congress is furnishing at least half a billion dollars for cancer research."
"And the American Cancer Society has been soliciting $40 to $50 millions every year."
"So why hasn't a more adequate treatment of cancer been developed?"
"At present, 1,000 Americans will die today and 1,000 more tomorrow and so on all through the year, despite our best hospital surgery, X ray and cobalt."
"Since medicine hasn't made any significant progress in the battle against cancer in 70 years, why should the Food and Drug Administration be so hostile to other methods, like Laetrile and Dr. Ivy's Carcalon?"
"For they apparently couldn't do worse and might be the real answer to cancer."

Cancer Dilemma
Alas, physicians and laboratory researchers have chiefly been looking for some magical NEW chemical or synthesized drug that will dramatically "kill" cancer cells!
That's why they still try to burn them with cobalt.
But the world's most famous physiologist, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, says the cancer patient needs to be viewed much like the diabetic.

Both are failing to produce the natural hormone substance that both types of victim usually had in adequate quantity when they were young.
But in middle age, the pancreas seems to fail in its production of approximately 100 units of internal insulin per day. Maybe it makes only 50 units. So we then inject an additional 50 from an outside source to bring the blood sugar level down to normal.
Such externally injected insulin doesn't "cure" diabetes. But it keeps the victim alive and well to a ripe old age.
And medics don't try to "kill" the defective pancreas by a dramatic burning drug or cobalt!
Instead, we merely ADD a little of the vital insulin hormone!
So, says, Dr. Ivy, when our natural internal manufacture of the anti-cancer hormone wanes, why not inject enough of the same hormone from an outside animal, such as a healthy horse?
Then we will bring the cancer victim's resistance back up to normal so his tumors diminish and he remains healthy.
The diabetic usually needs one injection per day of the 25 or 50 units required to keep him healthy.
Luckily, the cancer victim seems to get along O.K. on injections only twice per week of Carcalon, the anti-cancer hor-none.

Why does the FDA have such a frenzied panic lest Carcalon be used, especially since it admits Carcalon has no medical ill effects whatsoever?
And after expensive surgery, X ray and cobalt have proved ineffective, why deny the dying, terminal cancer victim at least a chance to resort to nature's natural hormonal attack on cancer?
"It's due to the FDA's bureaucratic schizophrenia," said

Dr. Paul Douglas, former U.S. Senator from Illinois for 18 years and a distinguished University of Chicago professor.
If Carcalon has no value, then why does the FDA show such terror at its being tried nationwide?
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Nov. 13, the 317th day of 1975. There are 48 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of the races on public buses was unconstitutional.
On this date:
In 1794, President George Washington sent an army into Pennsylvania to suppress an uprising by frontiersmen, known as the Whisky Rebellion.
In 1834, California adopted a state constitution.
In 1918, the Republic of Austria was proclaimed.
In 1941, in World War II, the British aircraft carrier, Ark

Royal, was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean, and only 18 of the crew survived.
Ten years ago: The cruise ship, Yarmouth Castle, sank after catching fire 110 miles east of Miami, and at least 89 lives were lost.
Five years ago: West Germany and Poland agreed on a treaty fixing the Oder-Neisse line as a border.
One year ago: The head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Yasser Arafat, told the U.N. General Assembly that his organization's goal was a Palestinian state that would include Moslems, Christians and Jews.
Today's birthdays: Actress Jean Seberg is 37 years old.

1776 AMERICAN BICENTENNIAL 1976

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 31st in a series of articles on the American Revolution for the Bicentennial year prepared by the American Antiquarian Society in cooperation with the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation.

By DR. FRANCIS G. WALETT

The rather short and stocky, ruggedly handsome officer hurried about Reuben Colburn's boatyard at Gardinerstown on the Kennebec River in Maine. Colonel Benedict Arnold was not pleased with what he saw that day in late September 1775. Two hundred bateaux had been built but many were smaller than specifications called for. Most of them had been poorly built out of green lumber and they were bound to leak or break up on the rugged voyage ahead. But Colburn had been given only three weeks to build the boats, and it's a wonder that he got them ready in any form.

In the days ahead Arnold and his men often cursed Colburn and his bateaux as they failed to stand up. But one might ask, what boats wouldn't have leaked and broken up under the pounding they took? Up the Kennebec, along the Dead River, and across the height of land in the awesome wilderness of Maine was the route Arnold would take. Once in Canada the small army would follow the Chaudiere River down to the St. Lawrence.

Canada was like a magnet drawing the attention of Americans in that year of revolution, 1775. What a prize if colonial forces could take it! And what a blow to British power!

Accordingly, an army of about 1,000 men was organized in New York under General Philip Schuyler. It was to move up Lake Champlain and into Canada to take Montreal; from there it would march down the St. Lawrence to attack the great stronghold, Quebec City. When General Schuyler became ill the command of this campaign fell to General Richard Montgomery.

General Washington (in his headquarters at Cambridge, Mass.) gave his approval for the Maine expedition, which was enthusiastically supported by Benedict Arnold. The commander-in-chief evidently thought Arnold was the dashing and courageous leader that this campaign required.

Backed so prestigiously, Arnold gathered 1,100 volunteers at Cambridge, marched them to Newburyport, and from there took them by boat to the Kennebec. By Sept. 22 the entire army had reached Gar-

Major General Benedict Arnold. Wounded Dec. 31-1775 at the attack of Quebec.

Benedict Arnold's courage and resourcefulness shown in the arduous March to Quebec in the winter of 1775 attracted considerable attention. This rather quaint contemporary portrait was done by an unknown English artist. It probably does not do justice to the vigorous and determined Arnold of 1775. ## Benedict Arnold and Quebec City campaign dinerstown. Although advance scouts and Indians warned of the dangers ahead, no one foresaw the agonizing hardships that the men would face as they hurriedly set out from Ft. West-ern (present site of Augusta). Arnold organized his small army into four companies, one of which was made up of Virginia and Pennsylvania riflemen, led by that born leader and veritable Goliath, Captain Daniel Morgan. Other courageous and hardy men there were, too—Lieutenant Colonel Christopher Greene of Rhode Island, Major Return Meigs of Connecticut, Major Timothy Bigelow of Worcester, Mass., and young Aaron Burr of New Jersey, among others.

The onrush of autumn notwithstanding, the daring march into the wilderness began. Soon the men got their taste of hard work—carrying the 400-pound bateaux over the numerous portages. Near Norridgewock they struggled onward as the river fell some ninety feet within a mile. By this time the bateaux (despite repairs) split at the seams and leaked badly; salt pork, beef and fish, dried peas, biscuits, and other provisions were spoiled. But the men pushed on. Bothered by a "prodigious fall of rain," the army struggled over soggy, swampy portages to reach Dead River in late October.

Supplies were short, food almost gone and the men weary.

After a council of war, they determined to go forward, however. Arnold's fourth division under Lieutenant Colonel Roger Enos of Vermont decided to turn back to safety and oblivion. The remainder—about 700 in all—plunged ahead, half-starved, worn out, and often ill. Stumbling over the Height of Land (the spine of the Appalachians) some got lost and nearly perished in this uncharted wilderness.

Eventually most of the ragged army crawled and staggered out of the woods in the snow and down to the Chaudiere River. Completely exhausted, and often unable to lift up their fallen comrades, they looked more like a group of skeletons than a fighting force. They were somewhat revived by food obtained by Arnold, who had rushed ahead to outlying French settlements. And now they trudge through the snow to Point Levis (opposite Quebec) on the St. Lawrence, which they reached Nov. 8, 1775.

Arnold hastily collected whatever boats he could find but bad weather prevented him from crossing the wide river until Nov. 13. Then the Americans (using Wolfe's path) climbed to the Plains of Abraham outside the walls of Quebec. Their demand for the surrender of the city was ignored. Unable to lure the British out of Quebec and too weak to assault it, Arnold withdrew to join forces with General Montgomery who was advancing from Montreal. But the latter had only about 300 men.

Although they were too few in number (less than 1,000 in all), the combined forces began the assault on Quebec in the early morning, Dec. 31, 1775. Montgomery led an attack on the west wall while Arnold struck from the east. It ended disastrously for the Americans—General Montgomery was killed and his force retired in confusion. While Arnold fought his way into the lower town he was wounded and had to be carried back. Despite savage and bloody fighting by men under Daniel Morgan, the Americans were repulsed.

Almost 100 attackers were killed or wounded and over 300

(including Captain Morgan) were taken prisoner. Arnold maintained a weak siege of Quebec in early 1776, but by spring the Americans had to retreat up the St. Lawrence River.

The general conclusion one reaches is that Benedict Arnold's expedition through the Maine wilderness was one of the most rugged marches in our military history.
